In 1981, as since the beginning of their armed aggression against the people of Kampuchea and the Government of Democratic Kampuchea, the Vietnamese invaders, by means of their 250,000-man army and their 50,000 administrative officials, have stepped up the criminal practices designed to deny the Kampuchean people for ever the right to self-determination and national identity. To this end, they have resorted to various measures with a view to Vietnamese by force the Kampuchean population in the areas under their temporary control and exterminating by massacre, famine and chemical weapons, all those who dare to oppose them. Their final objective is not only the physical extermination of the people of Kampuchea, but the destruction of their very spirit, culture and civilization within a few generations, so that they may absorb Kampuchea totally into a greater Viet Nam to be known as the "Indo-Chinese Federation".

Consequently, the war waged for more than three years against Kampuchea by the expansionists of Hanoi is no ordinary war of aggression as known in the past, but a war of annexation and extermination as part of a strategy of regional expansionism. This, in turn, forms part of the over-all strategy of international expansionism by which it is financed. These criminal practices perpetrated by the Vietnamese aggressors in Kampuchea are legion and include:

1. The obligation to study the Vietnamese language even before the Khmer language in schools;
2. The removal of tens of thousands of young Kampucheans to Viet Nam by force for indoctrination and Vietnamization;
3. The plundering and destruction of the monuments of Angkor and other items of the cultural heritage of Kampuchea;
4. The Vietnamization of future generations by the raping of Kampuchean-girls and by forcing them into concubinage or marriage with Vietnamese;
5. The forced twinning of Kampuchean provinces with Vietnamese provinces;
6. The establishment of 1 million Vietnamese settlers in Kampuchean territory after the eviction and massacre of the Kampuchean population;
7. The arrest, imprisonment, murder and abduction of Kampucheans, particularly of intellectuals opposed to the Vietnamese policy of the "Indo-Chinese Federation". This is especially true in Phnom Penh, where more than 30,000 persons are imprisoned in inhuman conditions;
8. The use of famine as a weapon of depopulation;
9. The intensified use of chemical and bacteriological weapons;
10. The continuation of acts of aggression and massacre;
11. The policy of trickery and threats, which has been raised to the status of a code of conduct in international relations and involves such measures as:

* sham elections;*
* announcement of unilateral and partial withdrawal of troops to disguise the sending of further reinforcements; and*
* threats against the countries of ASEAN.*
