II. Historical development of the drafting Convention on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women

2. Former United Nations efforts for the advancement of women have been consolidated on Conventions dealing with specific rights for women such as the Convention on the Political Rights of Women (1952), the Convention on the Nationality of Married Women (1957), the Convention on Consent to Marriage, Minimum Age for Marriage and Registration of Marriages (1962), and the Convention for the Suppression of the Traffic in Persons and of the Exploitation of the Prostitution of Others (1950), among others. In 1967 the Declaration on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women was adopted unanimously by the General Assembly, after four years of debate and detailed drafting work in the Commission on the Status of Women and in the General Assembly. The Convention is based on the Declaration and the process of drafting it began early in 1972 when, in its resolution 5 (XXIV), 2/ the Commission on the Status of Women invited the Secretary-General to call upon the States Members of the United Nations to transmit their views or proposals concerning the nature and content of a new instrument or instruments of international law to eliminate discrimination against women, and to prepare a working paper taking into account the replies of Governments. The Commission further decided, in order to facilitate this work, to establish a working group which was to meet five days before the twenty-fifth session of the Commission and "begin work on the preparation of a new draft instrument or instruments in the light of Governments' replies and of the Secretary-General's report".

3. A report was prepared by the Secretariat on the basis of 28 replies received from Governments 3/ (E/CN.6/573). The working group held meetings from 7 to 11 January and on 16 January 1974 and produced a report on the preparation of a new instrument or instruments of international law to eliminate discrimination against women (E/CN.6/574).

4. At its twenty-fifth session in 1974 the Commission on the Status of Women considered the report of the working group, decided to transmit it to Governments, specialized agencies and non-governmental organizations for their comments and requested the Secretary-General to prepare a report for its twenty-sixth session. The report was prepared (E/CN.6/591) on the basis of replies received from 40 Governments, 14 specialized agencies and 10 non-governmental organizations.

5. In its resolution 3521 (XXX) of 15 December 1975, the General Assembly requested the Commission on the Status of Women to complete, in 1976, the elaboration of the draft Convention on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women. The Commission completed the draft Convention at its resumed twenty-sixth session in December 1976. It was submitted to the Economic and Social Council at its sixty-second session which, at its 2058th plenary meeting on 12 May 1977, adopted resolution 2058 (LXII). This resolution recalls General Assembly resolution 31/136 of 16 December 1976, in which the Assembly, inter alia, approved the programme for the United Nations Decade for Women, which calls for the adoption of such a Convention by the Assembly and its entry into force in the first half of the Decade 1976 to 1980. Economic and Social Council resolution 2058 (LXII) further invites Member States and the specialized agencies to present their comments on the draft Convention and recommends that the General Assembly, at the outset of its thirty-second session, consider the draft Convention as a matter of urgency, in the light of comments received, with a view to its adoption at that session.
